

Entheogenesis Australis

Planting Ethnobotanical & Psychedelic Seeds

www.entheogenesis.org

Entheogenesis Australis (EGA) is a not-for-profit information-based academically focussed endeavour. We exist to provide opportunities for critical thinking and balanced discussion on ethnobotanical research, pharmacology, neuroscience, philosophy, anthropology, history, art and more. We offer a forum to examine past and present relationships between people, plants and the environment. We encourage gardening, the care/collection of plants and seeds that have a traditional relationship with humankind, and promote the preservation of knowledge about medicinal plants and related compounds.

Since 2004 EGA has supported the ethnobotanical and psychedelic community in Australia with conferences, journals, publications, and digital content. The aim of EGA conferences and associated projects is to address the issues relating to 'drug' use from social, cultural, traditional and scientific perspectives.

Please consider supporting EGA projects by making a donation or visiting the EGA online shop.
